

Hundenbog Joe's

A Hundenbog is a gigantic creature that is the size of a small island. Usually, they lure ships into coming close, then rise out of the water and snack on the sailors! Hundenbog Joe rarely eats people. Instead, he runs a frozen yogurt stand!

Uh oh... better go to Joe's! We are out of frozen yogurt. Our family has a monster appetite for the stuff. We go through 1 and $\frac{3}{4}$ gallons of frozen yogurt a day! How much do we need to buy to last a week?

It's a long hike to Hundenbog Joe's, but it is totally worth it. Joe's frozen yogurt stand is 2.4 miles away. If we make four trips a month, how many miles in total will we have walked at the end of the month?

Joe is having a special this week on his newest flavor, Swabbies and Cream! This is a premium yogurt that normally sells for \$6.75 a gallon! Joe is selling it for $\frac{2}{3}$ of the regular price. How much is the price per gallon?

At these prices, we can't afford NOT to buy everything in sight! We end up carrying 22 gallons of frozen yogurt home. Unfortunately, it is very slow to haul that much stuff around. By the time we get home, $\frac{2}{7}$ of the yogurt has melted. How much of the yogurt was still frozen when we got home?
